Our post-truth world

With each passing day, it becomes more evident that we live in a post-truth world. Today's example is brought to us courtesy of Donald Trump Jr. The president's son retweeted a story that falsely claimed CNN "suddenly" discovered the White House's gender pay gap now that Trump -- a Republican -- is in office.

"Really amazing that the wage gap concept was only discovered after January of this year. Right???" Trump Jr. tweeted. Of course, that statement has no relationship with the truth.

White House working on tending its own house on pay disparity 2

By Halimah Abdullah, CNN

Updated 9:05 PM ET, Tue April 8, 2014

Story highlights

- White House, agencies don't have pay parity for both genders
- The figures for the government are better than national figures for men and women on pay
- Addressing pay parity is complicated, say scholars and the Bureau of Labor Statistics
- Younger workers' pay seems to reflect closer parity

On a day when President Barack Obama trumpeted support of strengthening equal pay laws, a question about pay disparity between male and female staffers within the White House seemed to catch the administration a bit off guard.

Special Coverage: 2014 Midterm Elections

An analysis by the conservative American Enterprise Institute found that women staffers made about 88 cents on the dollar, compared with male staffers.

White House pays women 80 cents for every dollar paid to men 2

by Caitlin O'Grady

Updated 9:51 AM ET, Mon July 3, 2017

Story highlights

- Women working in the White House make $20,995 less on average than their male colleagues
- As of 2015, the federal government gender pay gap was 11 percent

(CNN) — Women working in the White House earn an average salary of 80 cents for every dollar paid to their male colleagues, a CNN analysis found.

That's a gender pay gap wider than the national average of 82 cents on the dollar, according to the Labor Department.

TAKEAWAYS:

1. CNN wrote the wage gap story in the SIXTH year of Obama's presidency, the FIRST year of Trump's presidency
2. Notice the much more nuanced headline for Obama?
The headline for Trump goes straight to a misleading statistic
3. Notice how CNN relied on a conservative think tank for its article on Obama? CNN never bothered doing its OWN analysis for Obama - I wonder why? #FakeNews
4. Look at the story highlights - for Obama's article they said the pay gap is "complicated" - no such context for Trump's article

CNN is not publishing "HanA**holeSolo's" name because he is a private citizen who has issued an extensive statement of apology, showed his remorse by saying he has taken down all his offending posts, and because he said he is not going to repeat this ugly behavior on social media again. In addition, he said his statement could serve as an example to others not to do the same.

CNN reserves the right to publish his identity should any of that change.

"The other thing that was 'fake news' coming from President Trump is when he said, well, I keep hearing it's 17 intelligence agencies that say Russia meddled in the election, I think it's only three or four," Acosta said. "Where does that number come from? Where does this 'three or four' number come from? ## Clarification: Trump-Russia stories

Jun 30, 5:32 PM EDT

WASHINGTON (AP) — In stories published April 6, June 2, June 26 and June 29, The Associated Press reported that all 17 U.S. intelligence agencies have agreed that Russia tried to influence the 2016 election to benefit Donald Trump. That assessment was based on information collected by three agencies — the FBI, CIA and National Security Agency — and published by the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, which represents all U.S. intelligence agencies. Not all 17 intelligence agencies were involved in reaching the assessment.

Correction: June 29, 2017

A White House Memo article on Monday about President Trump's deflections and denials about Russia referred incorrectly to the source of an intelligence assessment that said Russia orchestrated hacking attacks during last year's presidential election. The assessment was made by four intelligence agencies — the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, the Central Intelligence Agency, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the National Security Agency. The assessment was not approved by all 17 organizations in the American intelligence community.

Are You Kidding Me? CNN's Don Lemon Compares Jon Ossoff to Barack Obama

By Curtis Houck | April 19, 2017 2:23 AM EDT

No, that headline is not a joke. Just before midnight between Tuesday and Wednesday, CNN Tonight host Don Lemon swooned that Georgia Democratic congressional candidate Jon Ossoff sounded just like former President Barack Obama when addressing supporters after Tuesday's special election.

Despite the fact that Ossoff blew through over $8 million and failed to hit the 50 percent threshold and outright win that the media desperately wanted, Lemon kept up the hope.

BORGER: It was more personal because it was about their son, and, you know, you sit here and you watch that, and you think these people have suffered such pain and they feel fearful now.

JEFFREY LORD, TRUMP SUPPORTER: But the one thing, the line about, of course, they've lost their son who is a hero, but they asked that question. You can ask the same question of Hillary Clinton, what has she sacrificed? She just had a nice long career in government and public policy. That's not a sacrifice in the sense that their son.

COOPER: Well, actually I mean you would make the argument that as a public servant -- all public servants, you know, are not being paid highly.

An inconvenient half-truth?

Oliver Darcy emails: Sometimes a story fits into a narrative. Other times, it has to be forced into one. The latter seemed to be the case when some reporters and publications attributed the breaking off of a giant iceberg from Antarctica to global warming. In reality, the truth was much more nuanced.

Professor Adrian Luckman, the lead investigator of the group monitoring the break in the Larsen C ice shelf, plainly said, "We have no evidence to link this directly to climate change, and no reason to believe that it would not have happened without the extra warming that human activity has caused." He added that it was "part of the normal behavior of shelves" and "what makes this unusual is the size" of the particular iceberg in question. You can read CNN's story with more info here...

HARLOW: Let's talk -- go ahead.

FALSE

BROWNSTEIN: Real quick, but there are risks in recusal as well. You do lose a certain amount of political control. We saw Attorney General Lynch recuse herself and ultimately that I am sure had some weight on the scale in terms of James Comey releasing his second -- his letter right before the campaign. So, from the administration, recusal is not a cost-free option either.

[10:10:14] HARLOW: All right. So, let me get your take, to both of you. And to Ron, to you first, just on -- you know, part of Sessions' defense I would -- think would be, you know, sitting senators meet with ambassadors and they do.

Trump, Putin held secret meeting at G20 Summit

July 19, 2017, 07:03 AM

The White House confirms reports that President Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin spoke twice during the recent G20 Summit. Only the first meeting was known about at the time. The second discussion was not revealed until this week.
